ZÖGERNITZ
GARTENPALAIS

Did you know that the Strauss Dynasty invented the modern pop-music business?

They invented the world's first travelling orchestra, touring across the world
Played the biggest shows of their time, juggled media and music and marketing and became the world's first Pop Stars.

Original Venue

Garden-Palais Zögernitz, Vienna

Established 1837 - the Zögernitz was a meltingpot for the Viennese society and a hotspot for dance music.

Johann Strauss I. acted as musical director for the Zögernitz' opening.

Today, after years of renovation, it was brought back to life, in close cooperation with Eduard Strauss, the great-great-grandson of Johann Strauss I.

The Strauss Hall is the last remaining hall in its original form, where all four Strauss composers once performed.

The Zögernitz is one of the places that manifests Vienna's reputation as „Capital of Music“.

CULINARY

Indulge in authentic Viennese cuisine at its finest, served in a breathtaking ambience that delights all the senses.

Exhibition

Opening hours:

Tuesday to Sunday: 10am – 6:00pm

In the interactive audio-visual experience spanning 2,000 m², visitors journey alongside Strauss through the entire 19th century, navigating social upheaval and the industrial revolution, from Vienna's bustling music capital to global renown – witnessing the creation of timeless music.

The complimentary audio guide is narrated by Thomas Strauss, great-great-great-grandson of Johann Strauss I, available in ten languages.

Exhibition Show

Duration: 15 minutes

The Waltz King revived - we are bringing Johann Strauss II back on stage!

At the final part of the exhibition tour, a state of the art visual effects show, lets the King of Waltzes himself step on stage to perform a „best of“ of his compositions in the famous Zögernitz ballroom.

The show is narrated by Eduard Strauss, great-great-grandson of Johann Strauss I in German and English

Our in-house shop offers not only culinary delights but also the finest Viennese and "Strauss" souvenirs.

"The Strauss Concert Hall in the Casino Zögernitz breathes music. The hall's acoustics embrace musicians and audience."
